Introduction to the Fund

The Impact Fund for Munster is a one-year, €750,000 Fund created in 2022 by Rethink Ireland in partnership with a number of donors including the Parkes Family (Limerick), the Sunflower Charitable Foundation, El Electronics, Community Foundation for Ireland, and a number of private donors, with match funding from the Department of Rural and Community Development, via the Dormant Accounts Fund.

The Impact Fund for Munster provided cash grants and tailored capacity building supports to nine innovative projects working to enhance the physical and mental health of communities across the six counties of Munster, and supported them to grow and amplify their impact throughout the region.

OUR FUND VISION

The vision of the Impact Fund for Munster was to find and back innovative projects that enhance the physical and mental health outcomes of communities across Munster, including those using music, creativity and the arts to promote wellbeing across communities.

THE RETHINK IRELAND PACKAGE

Through the Impact Fund for Munster, Rethink Ireland supported nine awardees with cash grants and tailored capacity building supports to suit the needs of each organisation. Rethink Ireland provided a total package of supports equal to €610,000.

CASH GRANTS

The overall cash grant investment amounted to €525,000 between 2022 and 2023. Cash grants are a combination of private philanthropic funding and Government funding via the Dormant Accounts Fund.

CAPACITY BUILDING SUPPORTS

Capacity building supports are aimed at strengthening awardee organisations through tailored consultancy support on key strategic areas and participation in our Accelerator Programme. Rethink Ireland provided a total package of capacity building supports equal to €85,000.

The Impact Fund for Munster backed nine impressive awardees. Although these organisations came to the Fund at various levels of organisational development, they all shared a proven track record of enriching the lives of the people they work with. Whilst the Fund offered a distinct range of supports to awardees, it had a unique impact for each organisation. A venture philanthropy approach to scale and impact

At Rethink Ireland, we are committed to supporting the best social innovations to scale and maximise their impact. We do this by using a venture philanthropy model – a funding method that uses the tools of venture capital investing, alongside grants to support long-term social and environmental impact. Cash grant payments are tied to a number of targets and goals associated with programme delivery as well as strategic areas of growth.

CAPACITY BUILDING SUPPORTS: RETHINK IRELAND'S SUPPORT TO SCALE AND IMPACT

Our investment focuses on preparing our awardees to grow and develop their programmes so that they can maximise their social impact. Through a series of capacity building supports provided by consultants and our Accelerator Programme, we helped strengthen the organisational capacity of our awardees in a number of strategic areas.

Working 1-to-1 with expert consultants, awardees were supported to develop their capacity in impact management, strategic planning and financial sustainability. Rethink Ireland's Accelerator Programme, a unique offering that equips awardees with the skills needed to expand and deepen their impact, provided training from best-in-class experts across the private, nonprofit and public sector.

The Impact Fund for Munster capacity building supports focused on the following areas:

- Impact Measurement - A deeper understanding of social impact and the use of an impact management framework to capture and measure impact metrics in a consistent manner.
- Strategic Planning - A detailed strategy that sets out their journey to scale over the next few years.

- Financial Sustainability & Fundraising - A well-developed fundraising strategy to meet current funding needs and diversify income streams.
- Equality, Diversity and Inclusion - The strengths of ED&I and their relation to a successful project.

CASH GRANT INVESTMENT

The cash grants provided to awardees had a meaningful impact for their organisations, for example:

- Blue Box was able to hire a dedicated full-time coordinator to expand their services locally to serve new and growing populations of children, in particular, refugee and homeless children, as well as their parents.

Video: Compassionate Culture Network - Cahirsiveen

IMPACT STORY

Photographer Tara had been teaching art therapy classes with youth groups from the Traveller community and adults with mental health difficulties when she signed up as a facilitator for Compassionate Culture Network's new project in Cahersiveen.

Conversations around grief emerged organically as the group began working with clay and other visual prompts. Despite spending two hours discussing grief, the sessions would always end on an uplifting note with participants swapping numbers and making plans to meet up outside of the session. The collective relief in the room was palpable.

"You'd think that the energy would be really low when we finished each week but it was the opposite, there was a lot of laughter. I could see the group take great comfort in hearing others speak about the same feelings they had, it made them feel validated and normal. For me personally, it helped me join the dots on some of my own grief."

"They gave us the space to be creative, supportive and a safe place to tell our stories. I loved the concept of writing haiku. The format of this class was uncomplicated, and we all felt a feeling of recovery and healing."

IMPACT STORY

Marina came to Clonmel with her husband and three children seventeen months ago and they are currently living in temporary accommodation close to where the Song Seeking group meets. She remembers how nervous everyone was at that first rehearsal. “They said to me, ‘I can’t sing’ or ‘I don’t know music.’ And it’s the same every time a new member joins. But then we chat, we start singing together, everyone starts to relax, and before you know it they’re suggesting new songs for us to learn.”

Marina is particularly pleased to see how, in these difficult life circumstances for her and other Ukrainians, their love for music and singing has developed. “My son just started learning to play the piano and singing really helps him get a better feel for music. My daughter loves to sing in both Ukrainian and English, and she always asks when our next Song Seeking rehearsal is.”

The group have become more experimental as their confidence has grown, adding simple instruments like bells and incorporating dance to their exercises. Collaborating with other singing groups in the local area is another big aspect they enjoy.

“Earlier in the summer we joined two other local choirs for a concert. It was a great way for us to integrate more with the local community. We are currently rehearsing for a Christmas concert with these choirs. We love learning Carol of the Bells, Silent Night and Jingle Bells in English and Ukrainian. This concert will be the culmination of Song Seeking’s year!”

“We have been able to develop each session in a way that is bespoke to the participants’ needs. Their feedback and their stories of what this programme has given back to them, has been heartwarming and a motivator for all involved with Songseeking in 2022/2023.”

IMPACT STORY

Jayce, now almost 3 years old and with a confirmed autism diagnosis, has been on the ParentChild+ programme for just over a year. From having no communication, Jayce can now sing all the words to the wheels on the bus, he can count to 20, he can say the alphabet backwards, and he has recently started pre-school. Emily, Jayce's mother, says the support the family have received from ParentChild+ and Marian, her Home Visitor, have been the single most important intervention Jayce has had and that it's made her more optimistic about his future.

"I'm not sure whether Marian knows just how big an impact she has had on our family. Everyone's told us how much Jayce has come on. It's given me hope for him. In one year, there's been such a drastic change. I know things can only get better for him."

"I loved seeing my child improve his language and communication skills"

Parent

"ParentChild+ is a vital part of the community service being offered in Limerick City. Often children in target areas are waiting for speech and language therapy and the PC+ Service means that parents can be given interaction strategies to help support little people learning to talk before they ever get to Speech and Language Therapy. Home visitors are eager to learn and participate in evidence based Continuing Professional Development with other agencies on the ground."

Senior Speech and Language Therapist

Conclusion

The collective and individual impact of each of the nine Impact Fund for Munster awardees has been tangible and extends beyond the timeframe of the Fund. Through unique and innovative approaches, some including the use of arts and music, each awardee achieved higher levels of impact and organisational development. The collective result of this Fund is the enhancement of the physical and mental health of communities across Munster.

In some cases, like the Northstar Family Support Project, funding allowed them to hire an Outreach Worker to bring its services to areas of County Limerick that were not possible up to this point. For Kerry Parents and Friends Association, support from this Fund meant that they could roll out their brain health programme for people with Down Syndrome across their services which is key against the prevention of Alzheimer's disease.
